La latina con baja autoestima
Memorias
Cometierra by Dolores Reyes

Electric and provocative, visceral yet touching, Argentine writer, Dolores Reyes's debut novel follows a young woman only known as Eartheater, whose compulsion to eat earth gives her visions of the murdered and disappeared.

- BOLD NEW LATIN AMERICAN VOICE: Building on the grand tradition of deeply imaginative works such as Like Water for Chocolate, Reyes's joins a new cohort of Latin American authors like Valeria Luiselli and Samanta Schweblin who ground issues of feminism, class, and violence in an often unheard perspective.

- GRIPPING NEW PERSPECTIVE ON FEMINIST ISSUES: Readers interested in literature that tackles feminist issues such as Trust Exercise and Milkman, can find a wholly original perspective—Argentine, working-class—through Reyes’s writing. In fact, Reyes is a feminist activist in Argentina, professor of classical Greek, and also a mother of seven! The book really stands out from a crowded field of feminist literature with both it's perspective and setting, but also, it's mixture of genres.
